COOLIDGE TO IGNORE
PARLEY HINT

Holds Plea by Cecil Is Not Indicative of Change in British Policy.

U. S. PARITY NOW SOUGHT

By ALBERT W. FOX.

President Coolidge does not believe it feasible for Great Britain and the United States to reach an agreement on naval arms limitation, under present circumstances, according to authoritative information from the White House yesterday. The suggestion for such an agreement between leading naval powers was made by Viscount Cecil in the British House of Lords Thursday.

Cecil was formerly the principal delegate to the League of Nations and is known to be a sincere friend of America. He has been keenly disappointed by the failure of the British and American governments to agree to mutually satisfactory naval arms limitation and he has sharply criticized the British government's attitude at the Geneva naval conference last year.

His suggestion in the House of Lords is therefore regarded as a sincere attempt to initiate negotiations between the two governments with a view to agreement.

But President Coolidge is now apparently convinced that nothing is to be gained by raising false hopes with respect to Anglo-American agreement on the matter. The President would, of course, be willing to consider any suggestion by a responsible member of the British government, but he is not inclined to let the issue be raised by a practical way out of the impasse created by Britain's refusal to limit naval armaments on a basis of Anglo-American naval parity.

British Attitude Unchanged.

So far, however, indications point to a determination on the part of the British government not to deviate from its demand for a naval building program which the President is understood to regard as a symbol of naval expansion rather than naval limitation.

There is reason to believe therefore that the British must make the next move, if real prospect of Anglo-American agreement on arms limitation is to be revived. And it must be a move sufficiently definite in character to convince the Government of the United States that further efforts along this line will not be futile.

Seemingly endless academic discussion of Anglo-American agreement on naval armaments, without practical and definite indications of a changed British attitude, will accomplish nothing and might adversely affect the interests of the United States by raising false hopes, according to opinion in official circles here.

Officials point out that President Coolidge last year was confronted with the alternative of building an American navy in accordance with the accepted 5-5-3 ratio of the Washington conference, which means American parity with Great Britain, or negotiating a naval limitation which would leave the United States with a smaller fleet than the British and American taxpayers the burden of great and continued burdens.

Big Navy Now Planned.

The President chose the latter course and attempted to bring about the desired agreement. It failed at the Geneva conference called by the President. Prospects of ultimate success by way of agreement have grown dim practically to the vanishing point.

The other alternative is to build an American navy that will attain parity and, according to opinion here, this is what President Coolidge reluctantly realizes must be done.

The American people have reacted very favorably to the President's Armistice Day speech, according to telegrams and letters reaching the White House. Pointed foreign criticisms were expected as a matter of course, and are not disturbing the President. Mr. Coolidge wanted his speech to be helpful in clarifying the public mind on the issues discussed, including the naval armaments issue, and he is understood to believe that he has accomplished his purpose. The many communications reaching the White House from all parts of the country form the basis for that belief.

It was said at the White House yesterday that the President had no comment to make on the recent statement of Premier Poincaré, of France, relative to debts and reparations. The President is represented as not believing that public discussion of these matters would be helpful at this time, so far as American officials are concerned.

Debt Payment Held Vital.

There was a hint at the White House, however, that America would be more interested in communications to the American State Department through official channels on some of the matters discussed. It is known that the President would view any aspect of the European situation in a somewhat different light if the French government were to communicate to the United States some plan whereby France undertook to adjust the debt now owed to the American taxpayers.

President Coolidge is working on his message to the Congress and making progress. There are, it is indicated, no new pressing problems but old unsolved problems and recommendations which the President has made in the past and which have remained unacted upon are matters for executive consideration. Reports from members of the cabinet continue to show that the country is generally in very good condition.

Hereafter, advance copies of the President's message are to be given exclusively to the press. It was stated at the White House that these advance copies have in the past often found their way into brokerage offices and legislative agencies and that members of Congress naturally have a right to receive the message before it is thus put into circulation.

Woman Kills Self After
Dictating Her Will to Boy

Husband Finds Wife Dead From Gas—Known to Have Been Illiterate, Her Note Puzzles Police Until Lad Solves Mystery—Criticism His Writing, He Says.

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 16 (N.Y.W.S.).—Mrs. Ernestine Maser, 36, could not write, so she persuaded a 12-year-old neighbor boy to write a will which she dictated to him. Shortly after he left her house she committed suicide with gas.

Her body was found by her husband, John, when he came home from work about 7 o'clock Wednesday night, but not until today did the police solve the riddle as to how a woman who could not write left a suicide note with her name signed to it.

After questioning about 35 other persons living in the neighborhood of the Masers, the police today learned from Peter Anselmo, 12, that he wrote the note.

"I thought she was just making a will," the lad said. Mrs. Maser's note said: "Give all my property to my two youngest children; do not leave my husband or my eldest daughter see my body."

ERNESTINE MASER.

Peter said he went over to the Maser house after coming home from school Wednesday afternoon to play with Charles Maser, 7. His story is that Mrs. Maser sent Charles out to play, telling him to stay out and not to be running in and out bothering her. She kept Peter in the house to write for her.

She was critical about his penmanship, and tore up several uncompleted notes before he wrote one satisfactorily. Peter told the police he had trouble especially with her first name, "Ernestine," as she was desirous of having her name written with the unusual neatness.

When he at last made a satisfactory draft, he said, Mrs. Maser gave a quarter to him and bade him flippantly to run along and spend it. He consented. Maser found his wife dead in a bedroom with a gas tube in her mouth and with the cracks in the window and door stuffed tightly with paper.

DIRECTED ACQUITTAL
ASKED BY STEWART

Justice Bailey Will Give His Decision on Request in Perjury Trial Monday.

SENATE HEARING UPHOLD

(Associated Press.)

The perjury trial of Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, was adjourned yesterday by Justice Jennings Bailey until Monday when he will rule on a motion by defense counsel that the jury be directed to return a "not guilty" verdict.

Arguments on the motion were heard in the absence of the jury immediately after the Government had rested its case. Frank J. Hogan and Jesse C. Adkins, defense counsel, contended that the Senate public lands committee, before which Stewart is charged with having sworn falsely about the distribution of the Liberty bonds profits of the Continental Trading Co., was "not a competent tribunal."

They argued that evidence had not been introduced to support allegations of perjury and that the oil man could not be held legally liable for perjury in February because in April he had told all he knew about the Continental company, at what was technically a continuation of the earlier committee hearing.

Rover Upholds Regularity.

Replying for the Government, Leo A. Rover, district attorney, upheld the regularity of the committee meetings and challenged precedents cited by the defense in support of their stand that Stewart had legally absolved himself of liability for perjury by eventually telling what he knew of the Continental company.

Justice Bailey pointed out that a question involved in this phase was whether any harm had been caused by the first alleged false swearing and Rover maintained that Stewart's testimony, upon which the present indictment was based, had "thwarted and misled" the Senate committee before his information was given accurately two months later.

Walsh and Nye Testify.

Sensors Walsh, of Montana, and Nye, of North Dakota, both members of the committee, testified today for the second time. The former outlined rules and customs governing Senate committee meetings, and the latter asserted that Stewart had in February denied any knowledge of who received bonds of the Continental Co., or how these were distributed.

The only other witness was Roy J. Barnett, tax commissioner for the Indiana and Ohio companies, who testified that he had seen Stewart in November, 1921, turned over to him as trustee, $750,000 in bonds which eventually were found to have been assigned to the oil man from profits made by the Continental Co. in an oil transaction.

Wurzbach, Texas' only Republican representative, failed to benefit by last week's sweep to Hoover in the Lone Star State, and has lost his seat in the lower house to Augustus McCloskey, Democrat, by 233 votes, according to the unofficial tabulation announced today.

Three small precinct boxes were not included in the tabulation, because they were voted to have shown discrepancies, but Bexar County (San Antonio) commissioners said that if all votes in the questioned boxes were included, McCloskey's lead would be 205 votes. Both candidates have protested the vote.

of shares which could be swung only by investment trusts, pools or individuals of great resources.

At the opening, for example, approximately 20 stocks came out in blocks ranging from 8,000 to 20,000 shares. This accounted for a turnover of more than 600,000 shares in the first 15 minutes, representing trading at a rate of 12,000,000 shares a day. The ticker fell rapidly behind floor dealings, and only the unusual concentration of buying orders in huge blocks prevented it from being completely swamped.

Buying orders for 30,000 shares of Packard Motor swept into the market at the start, but only 10,000 shares were offered for sale. The rare expedient of naming a stock exchange committee to determine the selling price was resorted to, and the tape announced a sale of 10,000 shares at $114.87, an advance of more than 5 points.

Found in Stolen Auto

A sailor in uniform who said he was the son of a Philadelphia police sergeant, and who gave his name as James Francis McNally, 10 years old, and on duty at the Navy Yard, was picked up last night near the White House in an automobile listed as stolen.

Headquarters Detective Frank Allgood recognized the car as one reported by Charles Cissell, a sailor on duty aboard the U. S. S. Mayflower, as stolen. Allgood locked McNally up at the First Precinct station and went to the navy yard to identify him. There he could find no record of a man by that name.

Fake Fuel Oil Truck
Carries Liquor in Tank

Prince Georges police yesterday halted a fuel oil tank truck and found its load to be fuel for thirty trucks instead of rum. Frank Feeney, 30 years old, of Washington, was arrested and charged with transporting liquor. Arraigned before Judge J. Chew Sheriff in Prince Georges County Police Court at Marlboro, he was fined $200 and costs.

County Policemen Frank Prince, Harry Robinson and Henry Bryan stopped the truck at Hill's Bridge, near the county line between Anne Arundel and Prince Georges. The tank wagon appeared to be an innocent fuel oil truck, but the police had reason to suspect otherwise. They opened the filling cock on top and smelled and tasted the liquid inside. It was fuel oil.

The police then inspected the delivery car rack in the rear and here the secret of the construction of the truck was revealed. A false tank had been placed on top, just deep enough to foil the suspicions of any one making an examination of the top of the truck. Twenty-seven cases of liquor were found inside the tank.

Eskimos Fear Post Planes Landed at Cape Churchill

Party Ready for Journey to Victoria Land if Weather Permits.

By HOLLY BERRY

(Special Correspondent of the Post.)

Cape Churchill, Nov. 16.—(A.P.)—

Which in Eskimo means "Oh!" and "Ah!"

The natives of this Hudson Bay post have shouted everything in the Eskimo alphabet today as they watched the Washington Post Party, which is overhauling the home of Santa Claus, seeking the two planes which will carry us to Victoria Land.

"How can these huge monster birds fly when they have no feathers?" the Eskimos want to know. They stand around the planes, eyes wide with wonder, while they chatter to each other like children over a new toy. Sea Lion, on the bay in the steamer, has landed on the water, was uneventful. We have unloaded the planes, I told you, and they are now being thoroughly overhauled for our 1,000-mile jump to Victoria Land. A steam hose from the Sea Lion was used to wash the decks of the wings of the planes and restore them to their normal lifting power.

Mr. Douglas, the Hudson Bay factor (which means manager) of Cape Churchill tells us that we should be thankful we were not greeted with bullets in the settlement. Fortunately it seems that when the natives first caught sight of our airplanes they were filled with fear.

Men ran for their guns and other weapons, while the women, children and even the dogs scurried for cover, believing that a new enemy had appeared in the settlement. Fortunately Dr. Douglas was able to explain our mission to the Eskimos, and after a time they ventured close to our planes and watched every move as the big ships were being made ready.

Capt. Kleinschmidt found the time today to gather all of us for a short conference. He warned that the next lap of our journey must be the most dangerous, as all our flying must be done by instrument over a land where a mishap means death from starvation, exhaustion and cold. Nobody wants to back out, however, for we are just as anxious to find Santa as the boys and girls in Washington are to have us.

We are promised some new thrills for the last sections of our trip. Hunting polar bears on the ice and possibly a walrus hunt are included in the plans of our pilot, provided the flying delays us, while we also expect to have a lot of fun fishing through the ice when we reach Victoria Land.

Pictures of our interesting sights will be wireless to The Washington Post as quickly as possible, that its readers may know just what is going on as we struggle into the North in search of Santa.

ROBBERY SEARCH
FAILS TO FIND BONDS

$4,000,000 Arnstein Loot
Sought in Estate of Gambler on Lawyer's Charges.

$20,000 POLICY IS FOUND

cused Mr. Galsburg of "false statements" and using newspaper influence, everything was left up in the air.

Surrogate O'Brien, however, reserved decision.

It was during the most complicated phase of the argument when Mr. Guerin arose and addressed the court thus:

"We have traced directly to Mr. Rothstein the proceeds of Wall Street bond robberies—"

"Are you quoting from the book?" interrupted Surrogate O'Brien.

"I am quoting from the testimony," Mr. Guerin said. "We have also been informed that most of Mr. Rothstein's bookkeeping was in code. In view of this, I believe that no relative or person connected closely with Mr. Rothstein should be appointed an administrator."

Surrogate Asks Affidavits.

Whereupon, Surrogate O'Brien instructed them all to sign affidavits. That of Mr. Guerin was most eagerly awaited, for the mystery of the Arnstein bonds—what happened to the last $4,000,000—has been one of the greatest mysteries on the police records. Stolen from messenger boys in 1920, they were believed to have been disposed of by Arnstein, a gambler and "big shot," whose fame was nearly as great as that of Rothstein's.

Arnstein was arrested on the charge of importing stolen bonds into the District of Columbia, found guilty, and sentenced to two years in prison. Again in 1924, he was arrested in New York but the trial ground into nothing. At the time of his arrest, Rothstein furnished Arnstein's bail and it was the theory of police and surety companies then that Arnstein had given the gambler a big block of the stolen securities as collateral for the bail.

Still, the connection eluded them. During the past four years, the bonds have been cropping up in various cities, and only recently the surety company declared it had virtually traced them to Rothstein. But neither the trustee in bankruptcy for Arnstein nor the surety companies were to lay their hands on them.

Trustees Claim $4,000,000.

"The trustees in bankruptcy claim to be the creditor of the Rothstein estate," Mr. Guerin's affidavit deplored. "In the amount of $4,000,000, representing securities stolen from messenger boys, which have not yet been recovered."

Based upon the contents of 7,000 pages of testimony taken by the trustee in cooperation with the United States attorney and District Attorney Swann of New York, the document dwells weightily upon the close relationship between the two men and concludes:

"As a result of investigation, I believe and assert that Rothstein had in his possession or under his control, $4,000,000 worth of missing securities, or proceeds thereof, or had invested in real estate, or in other securities in order to destroy, so far as possible, all means of identification."

Securities Well Hidden.

Where these securities might be hidden, Mr. Guerin did not state. He asserted, however, that he knew that Rothstein maintained safe deposit boxes in this country and other countries, often under an assumed name. "It was, therefore, impossible to trace the securities during his life time," Mr. Guerin declared.

The affidavit submitted by Samuel Brown, the executor, was in compliance with the surrogate's request that he be furnished with a statement of the gambler's holdings. In it Brown, who managed Rothstein's business affairs at his main office declared that Rothstein's net investments represented $3,000,000.

This money was invested in the Hooper Realty Corporation, holding company for other corporations in which Rothstein was either the principal or only stockholder. Much of the holding corporation's assets, Mr. Brown deposed, consisted of indebtedness of other companies controlled by Rothstein. In addition to the Rothstein Mortgage Co., the Fairfield Hotel, Inc., the Lark Holdings Co., Inc., the Cedar Point Realty Corp., the Rothstein Brokerage Co., and the Oceanic Holding Co.

Search For Slayer Futile.

Meanwhile, the search for the "killer" failed to produce any new evidence. There was a mild stir when Detective Paddy Flood, who is at the spear-point of the search, secured a warrant for an unnamed man. Later, it became known that it was an order to enter the home of George McManus on Riverside Drive, who was in the room in which Rothstein is believed to have been shot.

Nor had "Tough Willie" McCabe, another gambler, accepted District Attorney Stanton's invitation to surrender himself. Mr. Stanton promised that he would produce McCabe in 24 hours. Since he made the invitation, nearly 60 hours have elapsed. It was announced at his office, however, that a lawyer, representing McCabe, had promised to produce the gambler this morning.

So far as Mayor Walker is concerned, the matter now rests with the police. He has given Police Commissioner Warren and the Detective Bureau until Monday to "produce some facts." If none are forthcoming, he will make known then what steps he will take. Mr. Warren contented himself with letting it be known that some nice new leads are developing.

BATHING GIRL ADMITS FILMS ARE THE LIFE

"I went into the movies," says Phyllis Haver, "because I wanted to act. There are 50 other reasons generally given, but in my case I was caught by the glamour of the screen—and am still caught by it. Whenever I told people all that I thought it would mean to work in pictures, they said I was suffering from day dreams—that nothing turned out as you expected it to."

"I played very small parts for a time, but gradually, through the experience I had gained in working and watching, more important roles came along. I shall always count my role as Shanghai Mabel in 'What Price Glory' as the turning point in my career. I almost turned that role down. Other producers had said to me, 'Phyllis, this is only a bit, but see what you can do with it. I am sure you can make something of the part.' When the Fox studio called me over to talk about the part of Shanghai Mabel this remark in substance was repeated. I was told the part was colorful, but that, of course, it was a bit. I heard this so much—this was the last straw. But I thought about the part and studied its possibilities and finally decided to take it. And that role was the turning point."

"Since that time I have played several roles which I have enjoyed immensely—in 'The Way of All Flesh' and 'Chicago.' I sincerely believe that my part in D. W. Griffith's 'The Battle of the Sexes' is one of the best things I've done."

Miss Haver is at Loew's Palace in 'The Battle of the Sexes.'

FILM CAUGHT GLAMOR OF OLD NASSAU

Tradition for background! This is something that even the ingenuity of motion picture stage technicians could not devise. Paramount therefore moved its staff and equipment to where tradition is, and for Charles (Buddy) Rogers' first starring picture, 'Varsity,' captured the historic background of Princeton University. 'Varsity' is the major screen offering this week at the Earle Theatre.

A completely equipped company was sent to Princeton University, after arrangements had been made with the proper authorities at the institution. Frank Tuttle, the director of this picture of father love, with a college background, a Yale man, and Wells Root, author of the story and also a graduate of Yale University, accompanied the troupe.

At Princeton, Tuttle caught the atmosphere of distinction and romance which only age can give to a setting. Old Nassau Hall, for example, where certain sequences of the picture were made, was constructed in 1756, ground having been broken two years prior to that date. It was there that the first classes of the university were held, and there that British soldiers made their headquarters during a period of the Revolutionary War.

GREAT COMIC DELINEATOR OF ACTUAL TYPES

Probably the greatest of them all in the art of make-up and character delineation, Charles (Chic) Sale, whose inimitable impersonations have brought the tears of laughter to thousands of theater patrons in the larger cities of the country, has become a convert to the talking pictures.

The man who can become an old doddering country store gossip, a severe middle-aged spinster, an old-fashioned minister of the gospel or a dignified Civil War veteran who knew Lincoln, and be any one of these in appearance, voice and gesture, will soon be seen and heard in every town and city of the world through the medium of the Fox Movietone.

"How do you do it?" he was asked recently when he signed his contract with Fox after tremendous success in the featured talking roles of the two reel films, 'The Star Witness,' 'Ladies Man,' and 'Marching On.'

HISTORIC SPOT UTILIZED IN AN UNUSUAL FILM

One of the most historic spots in the South Seas was selected by Director W. S. Van Dyke as the locale of the native village in 'White Shadows in the South Seas,' Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's picture of tropical romance and adventure, now playing at Loew's Columbia for the second week.

The village was located near the native settlement of Arua, on the island of Tahiti, 5,000 miles from Los Angeles. It was built on the seashore near the spot where the great captain Cook and other explorers, anchored their vessels.

To this spot also came the first missionaries ever sent to the islands of the Pacific. They built their homes and labored for years among the natives without gaining one convert. Here, also, and within the memory of living men, human sacrifices were frequently made to Tane, the chief of the gods, at the temple sites in the valley.

YOU HEAR ALL THAT YOU SEE IN NEW MOVIES

One who has never seen an "all-talking" picture, can hardly conceive of the effect given by a feature-length film in which every line of the dialogue is audibly spoken by the characters. The auditor is apt to feel like pinching himself to make sure that he is not taking part in a most surprising dream.

Starting in the audaciousness of its development, the Vitaphone has been so perfected by the Warner Bros. in the short space of three years that there now seems to be no limit to the possibilities of the new medium.

One of the first all-talking productions, and the most perfect, is 'The Home Towners,' which is now at the Metropolitan, adapted for the screen from the famous stage play by George M. Cohan. The all-star cast includes Richard Bennett, Doris Kenyon, Robert McWade, Robert Edson, Gladys Brockwell, John Miljan, Vera Lewis, Stanley Taylor, James T. Mack and Patricia Caron. Bryan Foy directed this heart-warming comedy, which was prepared for the screen by Addison Burkhardt and Murray Roth.

DON ALVARADO HAD STRUGGLE TO GET START

While still going to school and riding the ranch owned by his father, Don Alvarado, who is featured with Lya De Putti in 'The Scarlet Lady' at the Rialto this week, had dreams of making a name for himself in motion pictures.

He confided his aspirations to a chum and the two boys agreed to set out for Hollywood. On the way the lad disappeared with their combined resources and Alvarado was left penniless.

Don rode a freight train as far as San Bernardino, where he received twenty dollars for substituting in a prize fight. The money carried him to Hollywood.

In order to live, Alvarado obtained a position in a candy factory and worked at the job for several months before he had saved enough to quit and make a venture in pictures.

The next six months were spent in a cheap lodging house with an occasional day as extra player at some studio. He was given a nail job in a Warner production and did so well that he was immediately signed for a year. From that moment Alvarado climbed the ladder to success. Among his outstanding roles were those in 'Breakfast at Sunrise,' 'Drums of Love,' and 'The Battle of the Sexes.' In 'The Scarlet Lady,' Alvarado portrays a Russian prince.

SANDE'S ASSAK TAKES PRIZE GEORGES HANDICAP

Winner Leads Field From Break

Sun Beau Beaten by 1½ Lengths in Debut of Fall Meeting.

Starting Stalls Used Effectively; Aucilla Wins by Neck.

Entering the home stretch it looked as if Poly would win. He had a slight lead until the last few yards, when he hung, and Aucilla closing in resolute fashion was up in the last stride. Fair Anita lost her rider at the half-mile pole.

Upset Lad proved an upset when he took the favorite, Stand By, into camp in the running of the third race. The break was a good one. Before they had gone one-sixteenth, Stand By had a slight lead. Schreiner had him under stout restraint and after passing the half-mile pole he permitted Upset Lad to pass him and draw away into a commanding lead rounding the far turn. The latter, who never bothered and at the finish he had a lead of a length and a quarter over Stand By, who closed with a belated rush. Mayor Walker was third, beaten by a length for the place.

Another odds-on favorite fell by the wayside this afternoon when A. C. Schwartz's One Hour was beaten out in easy fashion by Crosso in the fifth race. One Hour flattered his backers by going to the front soon after the break and with Crosso in close pursuit led into the home stretch. Passing the furlong pole, Pascuma made his move with Crosso and the latter, responding with a rush, passed One Hour to draw away into a lead of two lengths and a half. Four lengths back of One Hour finished Sun Beau, who beat J. Fred A out by a head.

Catholic U. Gridders

At Brooklyn Today

The Catholic University football team will play its last out-of-town game today when it clashes with the heavy St. John's team at Brooklyn, N. Y., this afternoon. Although Jack Malevich may be unable to play, the Cardinals are relying upon the freshest of Chumpea and Healy, track men, and Murphy and Capt. Schmidt to gain their victory.

Murphy has been the team's most reliable passer and he is expected to get over a few long leaves to Zeno and Gerth, the ends, and to his back field mates.

While the Cardinal line probably will be outweighed, Coach McAuliffe is confident it will not be outplayed.

G. W. IS CONFIDENT FOR AMERICAN GAME TODAY

Crum to Use Clapper if Needed

Clements to Start in Back Field; Few Subs Available.

260-Pound Full Back Carries Hopes of Methodists.

WE are ready to win our first game of the season, Coach Maud Crum declared last night, "and my boys are supremely confident of the result." The George Washington football team had reference to the annual clash with American University which will be staged at 2 o'clock today at Eastern High School Stadium.

Beaten in six previous consecutive starts this season, and in addition headless while their opponents have piled up 187 points, the Colonial Eleven is whetting its appetite for a big feast of touchdowns this afternoon, and every effort will be directed in attempting to rout the "Methodists" by an overwhelming score and in a measure atone for past disappointments.

If previous records may be taken as criterion, American University can not be counted out of the picture, for it has shown enough of a scoring punch to amass 26 points to its opponents' 261 but so confident is Coach Crum that victory is his he has decided to keep his star, "Babe" Clapper, on the bench unless something unforeseen happens. Crum is anxious to save him for the big Thanksgiving Day game with Catholic University.

Clements will take Clapper's position. Clements has seen service this season, but it is in center position. The back field will be composed of Lawrence, Berkowitz and Frasier. The Columbia are praying that these backs will be able to play the entire game, as, with the exception of Clapper, there is not another half back on the squad.

The George Washington line will remain intact, with the exception of Mike Goldman, who may be given a rest, as he was badly battered in the last game last week. Rogers is likely to take his place.

American University will rely upon the same four backs, namely, Chris, Olsen, Corson and Folston, who have played in every game this season. Chris is the veteran of the team and will be relied upon strongly. Folston, 260-pound full back, will be counted upon to gain through the heavier Colonial line.

The Methodists' line will remain intact, with Love, La Fave, Wolowitz, American, Sullivan, Lambert and Bittner starting.

George Washington's position on the line is as follows:

George Washington	Position	American U.
George Washington	Center	Wolowitz
George Washington	Center	Wolowitz
George Washington	Center	Wolowitz
George Washington	Center	Wolowitz
George Washington	Center	Wolowitz

Dempsey Goes West: Silent on His Plans

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Jack Dempsey left for Los Angeles today by way of Salt Lake City, still silent on the subject of another comeback. He will stop over in Utah for a visit with relatives.

Dempsey, still considering the offer made him by Tex Rickard for another try at the heavyweight crown, George Washington University, intends to train lightly in California.

500 Georgetown Alumni Celebrate Home-Coming

The largest Georgetown University homecoming celebration in the last five years took place last night when between 400 and 500 old graduates gathered at the Willard Hotel. Songs, choral and speeches by many prominent Georgetown alumni featured the gathering. Among the speakers was Lou Little, who, as director of athletics, welcomed the old graduates back.

Graduates from every class from 1890 were present. Many of the separate classes will hold individual gatherings over the week-end.

EASTERN PLUNGE SMOTHERED BY TECH LINE

A futile attempt of McCullough, Eastern half back, to pierce the Tech line in the second quarter of yesterday's game is pictured above as it came to grief. McCullough is half-buried in the mass of tacklers. Eastern never recovered from Tech's touchdown in the first three minutes and lost the game and the title, 7 to 0.

Janney Eleven Plays At Richmond Dec. 8.

The Janney A. C. runner-up at present and last season in the 10-point division of the Capital City Football League, will play O'Reilly A. C. of Richmond on December 8, at the Virginia League Park. The Richmond Eleven has several college stars in its line-up and the Janneys expect a battle.

Tomorrow the Janneys play the Merchants at 1:30 o'clock at Friendship Field as part of a double-header which brings together the Mohawks and the Redskins at 3 o'clock. Both are league games.

TECH BEATS EASTERN, 7-0; ANNEXES TITLE

The Manual Trainers then started a counterattack after the ball had been brought out to the 20-yard mark, and I carried them near another goal as the whistle ended play.

Runs by Fountain, Florence and Goss brought the ball to midfield, and a pass from Drisel to Benner for 20 yards put the oval on Eastern's 30-yard line. Another pass from Drisel to Edelblut for 15 yards put the ball on the Eastern 15-yard mark, where the game ended after Fountain traveled around right end for a gain of but one yard.

Tech tried ten forward passes during the course of the proceedings, and completed four of them. Eastern tried one pass, the attempt, which was grounded over the goal line.

Baseball Families In Slander Action

Mrs. Uhle, Wife of Cleveland Pitcher, Accused by Kin of "Wamby."

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Mrs. George H. Uhle, wife of the big right-hand hurler of the Cleveland Indians, appeared in Common Pleas Court today to fight a $10,000 slander suit filed against her by the mother-in-law of William (Wamby) Wambagans, former Cleveland second baseman.

While the proceedings were colored with baseball characters, the alleged slander had nothing to do with baseball. It started in an argument over a back yard fence and the fence primarily was the cause of it.

Mrs. Mary I. Mulholland, mother-in-law of Wamby, lives next door to the Uhles. When a fence was built between the two yards by the Uhles Mrs. Mulholland objected that it was partly on her property and demanded that it be taken down, according to the evidence. The result was an argument, in which Mrs. Mulholland alleged that Mrs. Uhle called her names in the presence of neighbors.

Uhle was in court with his wife, but Wamby did not appear.

Southern, Wintons Play for Title Chance

The time of starting the Southern-Wintons game today is 10:40 o'clock. The teams will battle for a decisive victory, their objective being the title of the winner will be given a game with the Apaches.

A rivalry for the past five years, or ever since the teams were in 125-pound class, has existed. Last year when the Southern, Wintons and the Northern were in the 150-pound class, the Southern beat the Wintons, the Northern beat the Southern and the Wintons beat the Northern.

Kearns-Rickard Peace Seen; Signs for Fight

New York, Nov. 16 (United Press).—The first move for peace in the fistful feud between Tex Rickard and Jack Kearns was made today when the latter signed for his latest heavyweight hope, Andy Mitchell, of Long Beach, Calif., to meet Young Stribling, of Georgia, in a 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden, November 23.

Rickard and Kearns have been at odds since the Dempsey-Pirpo bout in New York in 1923. Kearns has been bitter at the promoter because he failed to help him collect part of Dempsey's purse for the first Tunney fight at Philadelphia and until today has refused to allow one of his fighters to appear in a bout under Rickard's promotion. Kearns may next sign for Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, to fight for Rickard.

Mitchell takes the place of Napoleon Jack Dorval, who was forced to withdraw from the Stribling bout because of an injured elbow. Mitchell is only 20 but has a long string of knockouts to his credit in the West. He is 6 feet 1 inch in height and weighs 182 pounds.

DEVITT PREP BEATEN BY C. U. CUBS

Oliver, DeMello and Peabody High Wins, Kane Star in 27-0 Grid Triumph.

THE Catholic University Freshmen continued to show their power yesterday when they defeated the Devitt Prep Eleven, 27 to 0, in the Catholic University stadium. Pumble in the first period put the C. U. Yearlings in position to score, something they did at the start of the second period. Kane carried the ball over the period was over, the C. U. Eleven had ripped the Devitt line for huge gains and made a second touchdown when DeMello caught a long pass from Kane and ran 35 yards.

Ambrose accounted for a touchdown in the third period. Oliver, who played despite injuries received last week at Mount St. Mary's, made a long run to the goal line where he fumbled. Ambrose recovered the ball for the score. Kane put the finishing touches on the scoring, going over in the last quarter.

Devitt was badly crippled for the game, but put up a plucky fight throughout. Capt. Knott and Paul Tangora were the outstanding players.

Duelberg and Walthour Six-Day Race Leaders

Chicago, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—Frank Duelberg and Walthour, the two American-American "aid" team, still clinging to their one-up lead on the international six-day bike race, secured a convincing victory today.

The outcome still was regarded as a toss-up, however, as 238 laps have already been stolen and the pack of veteran riders right behind them seemed to have a chance to win the final sprint. The race ends tomorrow.

Bowie Track Model FOR RACE MEETINGS

Fimlico accepted. The throngs moved with pleasant rapidity despite of rushing and there was room for all who sought the betting ring, paddock, grandstand or lawn.

There was none of the official negligence that has made attendance at Maryland tracks almost painful; negligence that bordered on dereliction of duty to the public by high officers of the racing associations. O'Hara's lieutenants were well instructed and there was a friendliness and courtesy in the atmosphere that almost spoke aloud in contrast.

The racing strip at Bowie yesterday was quite all that could be desired and in bold contrast to the course at Laurel, where a race track is a place of thoroughbred waste land in races, with trainers and owners plucked at Laurel officials and threatening to quit the track if they were not given a better place.

ARMSTRONG'S ELEVEN IS BEATEN

Oliver, DeMello and Peabody High Wins, Kane Star in 27-0 Grid Triumph.

THE Orange eleven, representing Armstrong Technical High School, yesterday at the Howard Stadium, for the first time in two seasons suffered defeat at the hands of the strong Peabody High School aggregation from Petersburg, Va., 6-0. Armstrong was unable to rally by line plunges and failed to complete forward passes, which might have turned the tide.

Peabody, which has not been defeated this season, made its touchdown in the second quarter when Hanley went around right end 10 yards following a forward pass. Taylor to Hanley, for a 20-yard gain. Jackson failed to make the extra point. The game was hard fought throughout, with the Virginians having the advantage of weight and age.

Almost the Naked Truth

By JAMES S. COLLINS

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Ancient rivalries will be renewed tomorrow on half a dozen Eastern football fields. Yale and Princeton, Syracuse and Colgate, Cornell and Dartmouth, Williams and Amherst and Lafayette and Penn State make up a card rich in traditions. Over a sweep of 45 years the Bulldogs and the Tiger have been meeting on the gridiron, while all the other teams named also are paired with traditional rivals.

Their clashes in the past have made some of the brightest pages in football history. In most cases, tomorrow's game is the one for which the season has pointed all season. If Syracuse can vanquish an ancient Colgate jinx, its previous disappointing work will be forgotten. If Dartmouth's crippled eleven can take Cornell's measure, the victory will wipe out the memory of a long series of disasters. And what could be sweeter to a Williams man than a triumph over Amherst? Nothing less than two triumphs.

Miracle-Working Doctors Have Garvey Ready.

Those miracle-working doctors in New Haven have been doing their stuff again, and Johnny Garvey will be in the back field when the Yale Eleven lines up against Princeton tomorrow afternoon. Reports from Yale earlier in the week implied that Johnny would be lucky if he did not have to spend the rest of his life in a hospital. The doctors, however, seemed almost as bad as that of Butch Loud on the eve of the Dartmouth game. Mr. Loud, it will be recalled, was suffering from a broken arm. The last minute ministrations of the miracle workers enabled Loud to do some very fine punting and tear off a remarkable 50-yard run (though Princeton Team Communications from New Haven do not reveal the methods of the miracle workers, but the chief element in their treatment seems to be a blast on a whistle).

Rockne Has Another Chance For An Upset Today.

Knut Rockne has another chance to upset the dope tomorrow, for Carnegie Tech is the favorite over Notre Dame. Most of the experts seem to think that Harper and Moorhead will give Rockne a hard time, but inasmuch as they encountered in Notre Dame more than they encountered in the Army, Rockne is especially anxious to win this game to give his team a morale boost. He handed his crack team two years ago when he, figuring the game as good as won, went to Chicago to see the boys' basketball team. He charged took a sound drubbing on that occasion. If Carnegie is able to slow away Notre Dame tomorrow afternoon, the Catholic football supremacy will be generally recognized.

Heaney Says He Learned A Lot From Tunney.

The heavyweight boxing situation, which now is drab indeed, should brighten a bit with the arrival here tomorrow of Tom Heaney, who has been homecoming in New Zealand since he took that terrific trouncing at the hands of Gene Tunney last July. Tom is reported eager to swing back into action and possibly Young Stribling, who clinched on Knute Hanson's might accompaniment. Thomas allows that he learned a lot in the Tunney fight. Well, if he did not, it was not because the champion failed to show him plenty of things about boxing.

MARYLAND FAVORED TO DEFEAT VIRGINIA

to bring up his scoring total this afternoon. This strike threat adds a new way of alibiing passes and to his mates in the back field or to Dick Turner or Bill Byrd on the ends.

With Sloan in the back field will be Hunter Faulconer, Gus Kammer and Albert Levy, all of whom are expert ball throwers. There is a slight chance that Bledsoe Pinkerton may replace one of these men at the start. Pinkerton is another good passer and a clutch player. He will be in if he makes up his mind to rely chiefly upon an air attack against the Old Liners.

Four Washington men are on the Cavalier squad which comes to College Park, but Turner is the only one expected to start. Turner came up yesterday in time to see his alma mater, Tech High, win the scholastic gridiron title. Woody Weaver, half back and starter at the Half Back position, and former St. Albans star, Louis MacCall, guard, and Norwood Orrick, end, who are products of Episcopal High School, are included in the 35 making the squad.

Capt. Bill Luke, 200-pound veteran tackle, was not in shape to come up with the squad. This will be the second game in which the Cavalier leader has not appeared in uniform. Lefty Close, half back, Harry Pippin and Bill Paxton, ends; Hunter Motter, tackle; and George Symington and Floyd Harris, guards, are others who would have been with the squad but for injuries.

With Dickson, Lombard, Mainis, Madigan, Crothers, Rubinaki and Heagy all in good condition, Maryland will be fortified on the line with about the strongest forward wall the squad can produce.

Keasler will go back to his regular position at quarter back, but Evans may get plenty of opportunity to call the squad after the line showing he made in the Yale game last Saturday. Evans' greatest asset is that he is cool-headed, regardless of what the game's situation may be. Roberts, Rice and Snyder will complete the back field.

GONZAGA 13-6 VICTOR OVER ST. MARY'S

McVean's Passing Is Factor in Defeat of Frosh.

SPECIAL TO THE WASHINGTON POST.

EMMITTSBURG, Md., Nov. 16. The Gonzaga High Eleven defeated the Mount St. Mary's Freshmen today by a 13-6 score. The visitors today into the van in the first period and increased their score in the second, but a touchdown by Mount St. Mary's scored in the third period. When the St. Mary's Eleven was off-side, Gonzaga was awarded the point.

In the second period Gonzaga got the ball on an exchange of punts on its own 45-yard line and at once started a drive down the field for a touchdown. On the 25-yard line McVean passed to Busink for 10 yards and McVean plunged over on the next play through tackle.

Mount St. Mary's scored its touchdown in the third period on a punt which bounded past McVean to the Gonzaga 25-yard line. Successive line plays advanced the ball to the 5-yard mark from which Mount St. Mary's was

MRS. WILLEBRANDT SILENT ON DRY RAIDS

Declines Responsibility for Descent of 200 Agents on Ten New York Cafes.

18 PERSONS ARE SEIZED

Los Angeles, Nov. 16 (A.P.)—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney General of the United States, declined here today to say that raids by dry agents on New York restaurants and night clubs this morning were made under her direct orders.
"Enforcement officers," Mrs. Willebrandt said, "are charged at all times to enforce the law, and this is only a part of that duty of enforcement. To comment beyond just that would be to defeat the purpose of the officers."

10 Places Raided.
New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.)—Sweeping from Greenwich Village to the midtown theatrical section, 200 prohibition agents shortly after midnight raided ten alleged speak-easies and night clubs and arrested 18 persons.
Warrants were issued during the last few weeks on evidence gathered by two special agents from Washington operating under orders of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney General in charge of prohibition enforcement.

The agents reported the seizure of a quantity of liquor in each place. Those arrested were all employees and were charged with illegal possession of liquor. Patrons were not molested.
The raids were marked by efficiency and secrecy.
The agents gathered at prohibition headquarters late in the afternoon and were given their instructions behind closed doors to prevent any leakage of information. Even the telephones were temporarily disconnected.

Raids Are Simultaneous.
Assembling in groups of ten the agents descended almost simultaneously on suspected establishments. Although the raids were made before the evening's revelry had fairly started in many of the places, some were well filled with patrons.

Among the places raided were the Gay Paree in West Fifty-ninth street, the Clubman's Club in West Fifty-first street, the Chat-O Club in West Fifty-eighth street, the Sixty-first Street Grill in West Sixty-first street, Mac's Cafe in West Forty-fifth street, an alleged speakeasy in Sixth avenue, Martin's Restaurant in West Forty-fifth street.
In the Greenwich Village section two adjoining restaurants in Sullivan street were raided, Jimmie Kelly's and the Roma.

At the same time city police raided a restaurant in West Fifty-first street, arresting a waiter on a charge of unlawful possession of liquor.

Novel Condemned To Fire in London

Miss Radclyffe-Hall's Book Obscene, Say Police; Noted Writers Not Heard.

London, Nov. 16 (United Press)—Miss Radclyffe-Hall's novel, "The Well of Loneliness," will be destroyed by fire, Sir Charles Biron, chief magistrate at Bow Street Court, decided today in one of the most famous "literary trials" of recent years. Police testified at the trial last week that Miss Radclyffe-Hall's novel was "obscene."

A number of the most celebrated literary figures in England appeared at the trial to contradict police testimony. They said that the novel, which dealt with "inversion," was a superior literary effort. The magistrate refused to admit their testimony, defended her book as dealing with a problem which must be handled frankly by future generations.

Gates of Coolidge Dam Closed to Form Big Lake

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 16 (A.P.)—Soon to expand into a lake which will irrigate 100,000 acres of land in the Casa Grande Valley, water was piling up behind Coolidge Dam today, following closing of the vent gates yesterday, which marked completion of the structure.
The gates, which provided an outlet for the waters of the Gila River during the months in which the dam was under construction, were closed by order of Maj. C. A. Oldberg, chief engineer in charge of construction. They settled down without a leak, and today will be sealed with concrete. The dam stands in the heart of the Arizona desert.

Dark tobacco offerings continue light in quantity and low in quality, $22 per hundred pounds being reported today as the best price for the red leaf.

Minnesota Crime Law Upheld.
Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 16 (A.P.)—Minnesota's habitual criminal act, adopted by the 1927 legislature, an adaptation of the Baughn law of New York, was upheld as constitutional today by the State supreme court. The law, aimed directly at the habitual criminal, or "repeaters," had been attacked in appeals from two Minnesota counties.

FEW CONVERTIBLES LEAD BONDS' GAINS

Market Generally Fails to Reflect Strength of Stock List.

FOREIGNS ARE IRREGULAR

New York, Nov. 16 (A.P.).—The bond market failed again today to share in the heavy trading which gave the stock market its busiest day in history. A few convertibles reflected the strength of stocks by making wide gains, rails were in some demand, oils showed a renewal of strength and a number of utilities gained, but prices in the general list showed little improvement. Total sales were slightly more than $11,000,000.

Coppers were among the features of the session, American 7s shooting up more than 12 points to a new top at 171 and Andes 7s soaring nearly 13 points to a new peak at 202 1/2, both gains being made in heavy trading and in sympathy with the rise in stocks. Other coppers made little headway.

Brooklyn Union Gas, a new issue, slipped 10 points at 335, a new high price, and Public Service of New Jersey 4 1/2s, which rose about 8 points to a new peak at 166, but closed at 165, lower, supplied strength for the utility group. Keyser & Co. 5 1/2s, closing 7 points at 128, a new top, Dodge Brothers 6s, National Dairy Products 6 1/2s, American Beet Sugar 6s, Gould Coupler 6s, and Elkhorn Coal 7s were outstanding in the industrial group. Colonial Oil 6s were lifted about 2 points to a new high at 110 and a number of others made small gains.

Rails were rather irregular, although many issues made small gains. Among the stronger were St. Paul 5 1/2s, Denver & Rio Grande 5 1/2s, Katy 5s, and some Interborough Rapid Transit issues, which were acquired on reports a favorable court decision is expected on the proposed increase in fares.

Italian industrial again led the irregular foreign list. Fiat 7s, with warrants moved up 10 points to a new top at 128 on buying encouraged by reports of a merger with Generali, then slipped off to 121, up 3 points on the day. Fiat 7 1/2s closed up 3 points at 122, also a new high, and Montecatini 7s advanced about 5 points to a new top at 122 1/2, but Government obligations were irregular.

ROADWAY, CO. SOON AFTER PLAYING, STIRS CITY HEADS TO ACTION

Committee Named to Effect Closer Coordination of District Departments.

ENGINEERS AND TRAFFIC HEADS TO SEEK SYSTEM

New Paving Dug Up After Being Open to Traffic for Twelve Hours.

Discovery that a newly laid roadway had been cut into within twelve hours after it had been thrown open to traffic resulted in action by the District Commissioners yesterday to bring about a closer coordination of the District machinery having to do with streets.

Maj. D. A. Davison, Maj. L. E. Atkins and Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, the three assistants to the Engineer Commissioner, William H. Harland, director of traffic, and J. G. Kioz, engineer of the Public Utilities Commission, were named a committee of five to draft the coordination plan.

The committee was appointed by Col. William B. Ladue, Engineer Commissioner, who has had the question under study for some time, going over reports submitted him by Capt. White-hurst and C. B. Hunt, engineer of highways, and other department heads.

Many Issue Permits.
Under the present system permits are issued to utilities and others to make cuts in sidewalks and roadways
for a few days or weeks of work without reference to any other office.
This has resulted in the issuance of many permits to make cuts in newly laid streets, but the climate during a few days ago when Capt. Whitehurst discovered that a new roadway which had been opened to traffic in the one afternoon had been cut into by 10 o'clock the next morning.

Though that is the most glaring example which has come to light, highway officials say there have been frequent cases of new streets cut into within a few days of their opening to completion. Every cut, they insist, reduces the life of a roadway and adds to the taxpayers' burden for upkeep of the city streets.

Costs Are Issue.
Another difficulty which is to be studied is the question of assessing costs for cuts. Under the existing law persons given permits to make cuts must fill in the hole and replace the paving. But the mere cost of piling the earth back and the cost of issuing over it does not meet the ultimate cost to the city. Whitehurst said, because of the weakening of the paving around the hole and its consequent early deterioration.

He is considering some system of graduated charges for the length of time they are made after a pavement is laid in comparison with the normal life of new paving.
The committee appointed yesterday
was charged specifically with reporting on four questions: The coordination of public utility work and the preparation of estimates for such work prior to the submission of the budget estimates to Congress; the regulation of cuts and the work done by departments of the District, public utilities corporations, plumbers and others in the public highways; the subject of the use of streets by motor and other vehicles and the weights of such vehicles as affecting public highways, and regulations to be made of permits for the use of public roadways
in connection with building operations and other similar occupation of highways for private use.

Mother Is Sought After Suicide Note

Branchville Woman Writes
She Is Going to Bottom of Potomac.

Receipt by her sister of a letter in which she said she was going "to the bottom of the Potomac" last night caused police to issue a general lookout for Mrs. Elizabeth Meade, 40 years old, of Branchville, Md.

The letter was turned over to police of the Twelfth Precinct by Mrs. Meade's brother-in-law, J. W. Maxwell, also of Branchville. In it Mrs. Meade said her sister to "please take good care of the children until I call for them."
For believe or not, she wrote to another sister. Although she has five children, Mrs. Meade mentions only two in the note, Nellie, 8 years old, and Louise, 12.

The note, after mentioning the children, says: "When you read this I will be in my grave. I can not bear it any longer. I will go to the bottom of the Potomac."

One of Youths Accused Of Larceny Arraigned

One of the six youths arrested by Fifth Precinct police, who declared the arrests brought to light approximately 100 cases of housebreaking and larceny was arraigned in Police Court yesterday on a single charge of housebreaking and larceny.

The youth, Mark F. Colton, 17 years old, was permitted his liberty on his personal recognizance to appear for a hearing Tuesday before Judge Ralph Given. He was charged with breaking into 9 Sixteenth street southeast and stealing watches and jewelry valued at $208.

Inventor Praises Young Radio Fans

C. Francis Jenkins Gives Address Before Foundry Church Bible Class.

C. Francis Jenkins, an inventor, last night in an address before the Men's Bible Class of Foundry Methodist Episcopal Church praised the work of the American boy in the development of radio. "The American boy has made the radio what it is today," the inventor said. It was through the efforts of President-elect Herbert Hoover that they had the opportunity to further this work, he said.
Hoover, he recalled, held out for the American amateur during the radio conferences of 1912 when the scientists of the country would have made it impossible for them to engage in radio transmission.
Jenkins said his work with television and other inventions has brought him into close contact with the American boy and they have afforded him great pleasure. In fact, he said, "no one can work with the American boy without absorbing some of the enthusiasm with which they tackle any problem."

GERMAN HORSE SHOW TEAM VISITS WHITE HOUSE

THREE HURT IN FIRE AS GASOLINE BLAZES

Sheet of Flame Sweeps
Through Shoe-Shine Parlor
After Explosion.

STREET CARS ARE TIED UP

A quickly subdued but spectacular fire, caused by the explosion of a can of gasoline in the Treasury Shoe Shining Parlor, 603 Fifteenth street northwest, and which caused minor injuries to the proprietor, a fireman and a colored bootblack, yesterday afternoon
attracted a large crowd of downtown shoppers and tied up the Fourteenth street and Georgetown street car lines
nearly half an hour.

Shortly after the firemen had returned to their stations after successfully extinguishing the fire, they were again called out to fight a small blaze at the same place, which is believed to have been caused by sparks which they had overlooked. A second crowd was attracted and street car traffic again was held up a short time.

Boy Trapped by Blaze

Those injured in the fire were Leon Norris, 38 years old, of 1303 P street
northwest, proprietor of the place,
whose hands were slightly burned;
Sergeant L. F. West, of Engine Company
No. 2, who was cut and burned on the head and neck; and William Winston, 19, colored, of 1319 Corcoran street northwest, who was cut by glass
on the leg and arm while escaping from the place by way of a skylight.

Norris refused treatment, while West and Winston were given first aid by the fire rescue squad, and later taken to Emergency Hospital.

Norris, Winston, three or four other bootblacks and about five customers were in the narrow little shoe shine
parlor when the explosion occurred, and all but Winston managed to run to the street in safety. Winston had been trapped in the rear of the store, and the fire rescue squad searched for him for nearly ten minutes before it was found that he had escaped through the skylight.

Flames Sweep Through Place.
Following the explosion, which is believed to have been caused by a spark from an electric fan cleaning machine coming in contact with a gasoline, sheets of flames swept from the rear of the place and out of the front door, furiously lapping the upholstered chairs, the front awnings
and everything in their wake.

Norris was cleaning a hat at the bookcase when the explosion occurred,
and his hands were cut and burned by the falling bookcase. He was miraculously saved, West was cut and burned when he was trying to escape by the skylight. Winston was cut by the front door fell on him as he was entering the blazing store.

Norris estimated the damage to his place at "several thousand dollars,"
which he said is covered by insurance.
The second floor of the building, which is occupied by Herman W. Oyster Co., and the haberdashery of R. T. Cissel, 1429 P street northwest, which abuts
the shoe shining parlor at the rear,
were slightly damaged by smoke and water.

Capital Contralto in Finals Of National Radio Contest

Miss Hazel Arth Wins Over Large Field for Chance
at Cash Prize.

Miss Hazel Cecelia Arth, of 2904 Thirteenth street northwest, a contralto, yesterday was adjudged winner of semifinals in the national radio audition contest over a large group of vocalists
in the Northeastern district, composed of the North Atlantic and New England States.

Miss Arth, who is 25 years old, is the first contestant to reach the finals in the audition contest, all five finalists last year having been soprano Miss Amy Goldsmith, 19-year-old coloratura soprano, of New York City, and Miss Paula J. Phoenix, of Oakhurst, N. J., a soprano, won second and third places,
respectively, in the semifinals in which Miss Arth took first place.

Singing with Miss Arth in the finals,
to be broadcast from station WEAJ,
New York, on December 16, will be the girl and men champions of the other four audition districts, namely, the Midwest, "Dixie," Southwest and far West, and the male champion of the Northeastern district.

By her victory Miss Arth is assured of receiving one of the Atwater Kent Foundation awards, totaling $17,500 in cash and conservatory scholarships and awards being offered for the ten finalists.

She was introduced as contestant No. 9
last Saturday and sang "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," from Saint-Saens' opera
"Samson and Delilah." She is the daughter of the late John W. Arth.

Three Overcome by Heat While Calling on Coolidge

Unexpected heat yesterday sent the mercury climbing to a new high for the month of 76 degrees, and caused three persons to be overcome by the heat.

The three overcome were attending the convention of the National Grange, and were visiting the White House when they were affected. J.
F. Brubaker, Lebanon, Pa., was revived by White House police and taken to his hotel. Two women
among the Grangers were overcome, but, after treatment, remained to great President Coolidge.

The warm weather will continue through today, according to the Weather Bureau, but will be broken by showers Sunday morning.

MYSTERY VEILS LOSS OF $3,000 BRACELET

Jeweled Platinum Ornament Disappears From Store of Shaw & Brown Co.

POLICE WITHOUT CLEW

A jeweled bracelet, valued at $3,000,
has mysteriously disappeared since November 1, from the store of Shaw &
Brown Co., fashionable jewelers of 1114
P street northwest. It was learned at police headquarters yesterday.

According to Detective Sgt. Oscar
W. Mansfield, who has been assigned to investigate the bracelet's disappearance was discovered several days ago when an inventory was taken. Officials of the firm could furnish the police with no clew, and while it is believed that the bracelet has been stolen, no one is suspected.

Stanley R. Fischer, of the Edmonds
Building, representing the company with whom the bracelet is insured, reported its loss to the police. It is described as a flexible platinum bracelet, one inch wide, with a rectangular black onyx on each edge, a flat onyx and ruby flowers in the designs, and the entire bracelet paved with diamonds.

B'nai B'rith Aids Jews' Faith, Says Rosenblum

Rabbi William Franklin Rosenblum, speaking last night from the pulpit of the Sixth Street Synagogue, called upon Washington Jewry to support the so-called Wider Scope activities of the Independent Order of the B'nai B'rith.

—What of the Moscow? Rabbi Rosen-blum warned that but for the efforts of the B'nai B'rith the Jewish college student would drift away from his faith. "The B'nai B'rith realized that if Judaism as a religion is to survive
it must rear a generation of young men and women who live Jewishly and interpret Judaism in actual daily conduct," he said.

The booklet put out by Douthitt,
which, presumably, will be distributed among members of Congress, says he is in this year of 1928, the Metropolitan Police Department of the District of Columbia, passed through stormy crises and has been able to break down its morale and destroy its efficiency.

"While the attacks were aimed primarily at certain members of the uniform personnel, Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, superintendent, and his loyal corps of assistants, the police have been using insidious and villainous tactics pursued to disgrace the department."

The "committee of friends," which is created with authority of the booklet, then goes on to quote from letters and documents praising Maj.
Hesse.

Evangelist, Arrested As Speeder, Given Cell

William McKinley Brown, colored, 26 years old, of 1522 Eighth street northwest, who gave his occupation as an evangelist, spent last night in a cell because he didn't have $500 to put up bond following his arrest in the afternoon on a charge of speeding.

Arrested by Police Officer D. D. Dyer, he was the third time he has been arrested on the charge. Police say that the evangelist was doing 30 miles an hour on Georgia avenue.

Victim of Auto Crash Has Fractured Skull

Ivan W. Thompson, 28 years old, of 2216 Evert street northeast, is in a serious condition at Homeopathic Hospital as the result of injuries received early yesterday morning when his automobile crashed into the telephone pole
at Twelfth and Rhode Island avenue
northwest.

Thompson, who was treated by Dr.
John L. DeMayo, is said to have a fractured skull and severe contusions and lacerations.

DOUTHITT SPONSORS DEFENSE OF HESSE

Booklet, "Words of Praise," to Offset Criticism, Is Published by Him.

GIBSON INQUIRY DELAYED

Harry N. Douthitt, former dry agent and newspaper editor, published the "Words of Praise" booklet on behalf of Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, superintendent of police, it was learned on good authority yesterday.

The booklet, which bears the title,
"Words of Praise," contains letters commending Maj. Hesse and a foreword eulogizing the police chief, his assistants and the Capital Police Department. It is evidently was intended as a reply to past criticism of Hesse and the department and calculated to head off any criticism in the future.

The booklet made its appearance
just as Representative Ernest W. Gibson, of Vermont, arrived in town to make a survey of conditions in the Police Department. Gibson, who is chairman of the House subcommittee detailing to investigate the local government, was scheduled to confer with
Maj. Hesse and Commissioner Proctor
L. Dougherty yesterday, but he failed to appear at the District Building.

Commissioner Ousts Myers.
Meantime the District Commissioners approved findings of the Police
Trial Board in the case of Policeman
M. J. Myers, of the Eighth Precinct, with the result that the officer was dismissed from the force.

Myers was charged with intoxication while on duty October 2 and of telling an untruth to Capt. Robert E. Doughty, who was only on duty when the latter questioned him about being in a house at 2930 Champlain street northwest, where he was alleged to have been in a row with a negro.
Myers, it was charged, at first denied he was in the house, but almost immediately afterward admitted that he was there, explaining that he had been seeking information to serve a warrant.

He was ordered by the police trial board to be tried on a charge of intoxication, but he was removed from the force, but made an appeal to the Commissioners. Several members of Congress, including Myers, but the Commissioners upheld
the trial board and dismissed him.

Hit-Run Autoist Given 13 Months

Charles W. Neuman Admits
Driving When Intoxicated,
Quitting Crash Scene.

A thirteen-month jail sentence was imposed on Charles W. Neuman yesterday in Police Court when he pleaded guilty before Judge Gus A. Schuldt to three charges of leaving after colliding and one of driving while drunk. Neuman also faces an accusation of joy-riding.

The defendant was arrested in a garage at Eighteenth and L streets northwest by Third Precinct police on Thursday. After colliding with a parked automobile on K street northwest he was said to have gone to the garage and taken another automobile.
In which a few minutes later he struck a second parked automobile on Eighteenth street. Again he returned to the garage and committed him to jail
during which the police were called and arrested him.

Following his arrest police found that another "hit-and-run" charge was pending against him. This resulted from a collision in Potomac Park on Tuesday when Neuman backed into a parked automobile and injured an occupant of the latter car, after which he eluded park policemen in a chase.

Detective Is Freed Of Drunk Charge

Case Against J. W. Casey Is Nolle Prossed After Doctor Reports.

Detective James W. Casey, of the Fourteenth precinct, yesterday was absolved of a driving-while-drunk charge
by Assistant Corporation Counsel Stanley DeNeal. The accusation against the detective was made following his arrest last week after his automobile had been in collision with a car driven by John York at Iowa circle
northwest.

DeNeal stated that he had received a letter from Dr. H. Watson Moffett, of 127 B street southeast, who declared that the detective, declared that he was intoxicated. DeNeal said, and York and his wife had informed the corporation counsel that they were disinclined to prosecute the detective. So DeNeal nolle prossed the case. Casey was suspended from duty
by Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, superintendent of police, following his arrest, pending the outcome of the accusation.

GRAVELLY AIRPORT BACKED BY FOKKER AND COMMERCIAL AIR

Airplane Designer Indorses
Site; Tells City Club It Should Be Model.

M'CRACKEN SAYS FIELD IS ASSET FOR BUSINESS

Space Held Ample to Build Runways for Landings
at Various Angles.

Anthony Fokker, noted airplane designer, not only approved the Gravelly Point site for an airport, but told the business men at the weekly forum
luncheon at the City Club yesterday that it should be made a model for the whole world.

He added that since commercial aviation is coming strongly to the front, the National Capital should take the lead in developing facilities for that industry.

The opinion of Fokker was echoed by William J. MacCracken, Jr., Assistant Secretary of Commerce in charge of aviation, who declared he was satisfied that an airport for Washington was not only the concern of Congress and the District government, but capital business men as well. He also declared Washington should lead the way in every phase of commercial aviation and added an airport here should be made the world's best.

The Assistant Secretary said people have an idea the site is coming from the fact that it is a drive, or on a roof of buildings, but that commercial planes of the future are to be designed to land on a drive, or on a passenger and must be landed at a big airport. "Our slogan," he said, is
"bigger and better airports."

Frances Col. Lindbergh, who, at the outset of his speech, Fokker paid tribute to Col. Charles Lindbergh, who, he said, "has sold the country on commercial aviation."

He asserted the Government has done better in this country by establishing air mail routes than it would have done by giving subsidies to stimulate flying, as is done abroad.

Speaking with commercial flying of the future, Fokker predicted airplanes of tomorrow will be equipped with three or four engines, and will be operating at high speeds, and that commercial planes of the future are to be
designed to land on a drive, or on a
passenger and must be landed at a
big airport. "Our slogan," he said, is
"bigger and better airports."

Fields Are Big Expense.
The expensive part of flying, he said,
is not the cost of the plane, but the landing field, with its hangars, radio
beacon lights and other equipment.

He said that the modern airport should be used as a terminal, similar to a big railroad station, and not be used for experimenting and testing of planes, or servicing and repairing. No joyriding or sightseeing should be allowed on the airport, those things to be done from other fields, he said.

Fokker added that he doubted it is possible to have only one landing
field for a big city due to the complexity of the air that is bound to take place in the future. He suggested a number of fields around big cities that would divert air traffic.

HELPERS CLARKE INSTITUTE

U. S. NAVAL PLAN DECRIED

With more than $1,000,000 already pledged, a drive was started here yesterday to complete the fund of $2,000-000 being sought for the Clarke School for the Deaf at Northampton, Mass., in which Mrs. Coolidge was formerly a teacher.

The drive got under way with a luncheon of its sponsors, which was followed by a tea at the White House, at which the President and Mrs. Coolidge were hosts to the group in charge,
many of whom are personal friends.

President Coolidge voiced his approval of the project in a letter which was read at the luncheon by Earle P.
Charlton, of Fall River, Mass., chairman of the fund committee.
The letter said: "I want to express through you to those assembled at the conference the sincere appreciation of Mrs. Coolidge and myself of their interest in the cause which we have so deeply at heart. It is my hope that this foundation may result not only in broadening the sphere of usefulness of Clarke School, but may also help to achieve a greater interest in the problems of the deaf and in this humanitarian work which has so seemingly failed to keep pace with progress in other fields."

The fund will be used for modernization of the buildings of the school and the creation of a research department.
The sponsors made public yesterday
a list of the larger contributors to the fund thus far raised. They include Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who gave $100,000, and John J. Raskob, who donated $50,000.

Jury Holds Man Guilty Of Bookmaking Charge

Convicted of gambling charges by a District Supreme Court jury yesterday,
Nick Keart, was sentenced to 12 months
in jail and committed to the District Jail, pending action on a motion for a new trial. The jury deliberated for 15 minutes before declaring the defendant
guilty of all charges in an eight-count indictment that he maintained a gaming table for playing "black jack" and accepted bets on horse races.

Keart was arrested August 15 in a raid at 719 Ninth street northwest, by the police vice squad, commanded by Sergeant C. J. Letterman. Fifty men were also taken into custody during the raid, and were booked as government witnesses, but none took the witness stand. Heart, since his arrest, has been at liberty on bail, but Chief Justice Walter L. McCoy committed him to jail after his counsel, Harry Whelan, gave notice of his intention to request a new trial and sought to have the court free the defendant in bond. Assistant District Attorney William H. Collins appeared for the prosecution.

Priest Pleads Guilty To Charge of Speeding

The Rev. Michael J. Riordan, pastor of St. Martin's Catholic Church, North west, pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of speeding and pleaded guilty. Judge of $10 or 10 days, and committed him to the House of Correction, which the priest was arrested on Illinois
